NEWS RELEASE

August 27, 2018

Northglenn to Cut Ribbon on New Justice Center on Sept. 11

Public invited to ceremony and tours of building

Northglenn, CO – The City of Northglenn is set to cut the ribbon on a new state-of-the-art Northglenn Justice Center on Tuesday, Sept. 11 at 5:30 p.m. The public is invited to join the celebration of the facility at 50 W. Community Center Drive which will house the city’s police department and municipal court.

“The new Justice Center is modern, safe, and sustainable – designed to serve the needs of our community for generations to come,” said Northglenn Police Chief Jim May. “On this special day visitors will be treated to behind-the-scene tours that will not be available once the center is in full operation.”

The celebration offers an opportunity for residents to tour the 45,000 square-foot building, even rooms that will not otherwise be seen by the public, such as the evidence room and crime lab. Some of Northglenn’s first police officers will be among the visitors at the celebration. Northglenn Police commemorative challenge coins will be available for sale and food trucks will be on hand for the purchase of refreshments.

The new building features SMART technology such as light sensors, set points for temperature, solar panels and more than 16,000 feet of interior and exterior glass for natural lighting. It also contains a police training center and a display of historical items, including a jail door dating back to 1940 that was used in the city’s first jail and affectionately known as Cell 5.
